

Jason Lamarche – LPCBC Organization Chair Candidate

I am running to be the LPCBC Organization Chair because I genuinely want to contribute to the future success of the Liberal Party of Canada.

During the past several weeks I've talked with countless LPCBC riding presidents about our organization efforts. I agreed with many of their comments that we need to make the engagement and growth of our Liberal members a top priority!

This task is a challenging one and it will require the full attention of our next Organization Chair. As a 32 year old community organizer I am offering you over 10 years of successful local and national event production experience.

When it comes to technology and politics I am at the forefront of this movement. In less than a year I have created one of Canada's best known political blogs called the "Liberal Minute".

I also possess lots of traditional election experience and have worked on numerous winning political campaigns including:

Vision Vancouver – Sarah Blyth for Park Board Commissioner
Democratic Party – Barack Obama for President
Liberal Party of Canada – Dr. Hedy Fry for MP Vancouver Centre

If you vote for me at the LPCBC convention in Whistler on November 21st I promise to give this responsibility my undivided attention and ongoing commitment to listening to your collective organizational concerns and ideas.

Together we will implement our best practices, engage BC voters everywhere, and grow our Liberal team to new heights.

My name is Jason Lamarche and I want to be your LPCBC Organization Chair!

Thank you,

Jason Lamarche
